

Tips for Introducing the Power Wheel

1. Before looking at the Power Wheel, participants should view the YouTube video, Why does Privilege Make People So Angry?
2. Review from the video that everyone has some form of privilege. We all experience high degrees of privilege in some areas and low degrees in others. This is referred to as intersectionality. Give examples using yourself if you are comfortable doing so. Discuss how it is important to acknowledge the areas of privilege that we experience. We can act as an ally to those who don't experience the same degree of privilege to ensure they are valued and included within a group.
3. Hand out copies of the Power Wheel to each participant and ask them to reflect individually on their differing degrees of privilege.
4. Follow up with a large or small group discussion, sharing reactions to this tool. It is not necessary for participants to share the areas they identified for themselves.
